Painting Prices

Materials: Prices shown are for oil or gouache paintings on stretched canvas, cradled boards, or mounted paper cradled boards (gouache). The prices also include handmade wood frames. Oil paintings can be varnished by consultation over the phone for free. Gouache paintings are framed without glass and are sealed with a UV Matte Varnish before a hand buffed layer of wax medium to protect the art from humidity. All painting materials I use are high quality and chosen with archival concerns in mind.

Schedule: If you are considering a commissioned painting, please be aware of scheduling that most paintings take a minimum of 1 week to build (depending on time of year) the panel/canvas and agree upon a design, 2-4 weeks to make the painting depending on size, 1-2 weeks for the painting to dry and build a frame, and then 1-2 weeks to ship/deliver the painting. This provides a minimum time frame of 5 weeks from the first payment. If the painting is going to be made from direct observation without photo references, then the schedule may be shorter. If you're interested in a commission, the first step is to email me with the size, type of paint and surface, and a brief explanation of the visual idea. From there we'll discuss scheduling, payment, and other details.

Payment: Prices do not include sales tax. All payments are collected through my online shop at acunaarts.com/shop. Paintings are shipped after 100% of the payment has been received. I offer monthly payment plans for collectors through my online shop. Prior to shipping the painting the collector should confirm they're satisfaction with the work. If a painting doesn't meet collector satisfaction once received, then I offer one extra 3 hour painting session free of charge so long as the shipping or travel costs are paid prior to the session by the collector. Refunds are not offered on commissioned paintings which is why ensuring satisfaction prior to shipping is very important. Please let me know if you have any questions, thank you for considering a commissioned painting.
